

S K Gupta has been known as a person of air quality monitoring and management in India due to his important contribution to produce India's own air pollution monitoring instruments in early 80's.

He is presently the Chairman of Envirotech Instruments (I) Pvt. Ltd, Delhi and Honorary Secretary of Indian Association for Air Pollution Control (Delhi Chapter).

He is also the founding and mission advisor of Global council of environment and health Inc, working to ensure clear air and climate for every global citizen to save their lives.

Due to his deep interest in protecting and improving the air quality and continuous initiating efforts in this area, he has always been recognised as an entrepreneur for developing indigenous capabilities in India in the field of environment and to provide employment to many people in the country.